A Thought for the Week:

Week 1: Until you make peace with who you are, you will never be content with what you have.

Week 2: May you receive what you have been praying for.

Week 3: The struggle you're in today is developing the strength you need for tomorrow.

Week 4: If you are not ready for the truth, you will not receive it.

Practical Life Tidbits

Black History Month-Not just an American Celebration

Black History Month also known as African-American History Month in America, is an annual observance in the United States, Canada, United Kingdom, Germany, and in the Netherlands (as of 2016) where it is known as Black Achievement Month. It began as a way for remembering important people and events in the history of the African diaspora. It is celebrated annually in the United States and Canada in February, as well as in the United Kingdom and the Netherlands in October.

In America, the precursor to Black History Month was created in 1926 in the United States, when historian Carter G. Woodson and the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History announced the second week of February to be "Negro History Week". This week was chosen because it coincided with the birthday of Abraham Lincoln on February 12 and of Frederick Douglass on February 14, both of which dates black communities had celebrated together since the late 19th century.

Mission Statement

Our mission is to perpetuate the gospel of Jesus Christ (the good news of the death, burial and resurrection of our Lord and Saviour). We want to proclaim these glad tidings to all, to provide a clear and direct route to God, to prepare all that will believe and receive for the much anticipated great and glorious return of our Lord.
