A Thought for the Week:

By Dr. Ruth K. Westheimer

Week 1: You can count on better days to come because of the good days that came before.

Week 2: Good friends who know how to lift your spirits are one of life's greatest pleasures.

Week 3: To fully live life, there's an entire range of emotions that you need to feel, and that even includes sadness.

Week 4: Never stop learning--don't be afraid to get your hands dirty.

Week 5: You won't gain anything unless you're willing to lose something as well, so take a deep breath and take a risk.

Lesson for the Month:

The Purpose Driven Life

Purpose 2: Faith and Friendship with God (April-May)

Your life is worth taking time to think about. And God is worth knowing, because he's the only one who can give your life real meaning. In 2016 the youth will study and discuss the book Purpose-Driven Life Devotional for Kids by Rick Warren to get a better understanding of God's plan for their lives and how they can make a difference in the world.

Practical Life Tidbits

"Starting to use Credit: Where Do I Begin?"

Establishing good credit now can help you show potential lenders that you know how to use credit wisely when the times comes for you to make a big purchase in the future. And having access to the credit you want when you need it most can put achieving your financial goals within reach. Below are steps you can take you can take to get started establishing your credit. Like any good investment, the payoff won't happen right away but the end result is well worth the effort.

- Check your credit report first. Make sure that you look over your credit report before you apply for credit – confirm your personal information looks right, and that there's no unauthorized activity appearing yet.
- Open a checking account and obtain a secured credit card. Because these cards are backed by the money you've deposited with the bank, they're easier to get than normal credit cards. Use the card for small purchases and pay off the balance each month.
- Consider leasing a car rather than buying. This might seem backwards, but in general, payments are lower for vehicles that you lease versus buy. Plus, the money you'll put down on the lease will show lenders that you're able to save toward a goal. The lease – and your record of good payment – will appear on your credit report.
- Use credit wisely. When working to establish credit, keep in mind that your purpose in using credit for now is to build a positive credit history – not to purchase everything you dream about but can't afford yet. Keep credit purchases manageable and sensible.

Mission Statement

Our mission is to perpetuate the gospel of Jesus Christ (the good news of the death, burial and resurrection of our Lord and Saviour). We want to proclaim these glad tidings to all, to provide a clear and direct route to God, to prepare all that will believe and receive for the much anticipated great and glorious return of our Lord.
